SENATOR MARTIN MARRIED IN CITY

Senator Martin and Mrs. H. L. Baugher Married in Philadelphia on Thursday. City Paper Tells of the Marriage.

Senator William A. Martin, of Lincoln avenue, and Mrs. H. L. Baugher, of Carlisle street, were married at Philadelphia on Thursday by the Rev. H. Hall Sharp, of Highspire. The Philadelphia North American gives the following account of the event:

"Slipping quietly into this city, State Senator William A. Martin, representing the counties of Adams and Franklin and a resident of Gettysburg, was married yesterday in the Bellevue-Stratford, and last night was the happiest bridegroom in seven counties, chuckling with glee as he thought of the surprise in store for his friends.

"The bride was Mrs. Ida Baugher, widow of Prof. Henry Louis Baugher, of Gettysburg College. Mrs. Martin came to this city on business last Monday and registered at the Bellevue-Stratford. The senator slipped into town on Wednesday night and registered at the same hotel.

"It was all cut and dried. The senator wanted the wedding to be a surprise, so he kept it quiet. He had some trouble to do this, too, for yesterday he bumped into Senator McConnell, an old friend, and McConnell was curious to know why he was here, while at the same time he was glad to see his friend. But Senator Martin was fussy, and kept his secret.

"He managed to get away from McConnell only to come face to face with Senator Flynn, of Pittsburgh, and there were more greetings. Senator Martin was not here to attend a caucus, he had a more tender object in view, so he got away from Flynn. Eventually he succeeded in capturing a license, and then appeared upon the scene, by preconcerted arrangement, the Rev. H. H. Sharp, of Highspire, who is the bridegroom's son-in-law.

"There was quiet trip to a secluded parlor in the hotel and the two were made one. Then there was a quiet supper for three in the hotel, after which the happy pair went to the theater.

"Now it seems that the senator lost his first wife and Mrs. Martin her first husband about twelve years ago. For eight years they have been close friends, and it has long been suspected that they had matrimonial intentions.

"Last night the senator was highly amused at the thought of the surprise that will come to his friends this morning. Even last night he chatted with Senator and Mrs. McConnell, hours after the ceremony had been performed, and never let slip a hint of what had happened.

"Senator Martin stands about six and a half feet tall. He is a Democrat, and has long been active in Adams county politics. He was first elected to the house of representatives in 1877. In 1886 he was elected state senator. In 1908 he led an apparently forlorn hope, and was elected again.

"He is one of the big land owners of Adams county, and is nearly seventy years old, but neither feels it nor looks it.

"Senator and Mrs. Martin will remain in this city until Saturday next, and then go to Atlantic City for two weeks. They will return to Gettysburg the latter part of this month."

DIRECTORS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Adams County School Directors Elect Officers and Delegates for the Coming Year. College Boys Give Good Concert.

After discussing many phases of school activity and management at Thursday afternoon's session of their convention the school directors of Adams County elected officers for the coming year. Henry Butler, of Conewago township, was chosen president; Reuben Swartz, of Mount Joy township, and R. K. Major, of Cumberland township, as vice presidents; C. Arthur Griest, of Butler township, secretary; William A. Alwine, of Oxford township, treasurer.

The following delegates to the state convention were elected: John D. Van Dyke, Butler; E. L. Eckert, Oxford; A. L. Wagaman, Mount Pleasant; Orpheus Diller, York Springs; Dr. Elgin, East Berlin. Alternates chosen were, J. C. Knox, Highland; R. C. Miller, Gettysburg; Charles Hafer, Abbotstown; A. I. Weidner, Arendtsville; J. J. Reindollar, Fairfield.

Thursday afternoon's session of the convention proved of very great practical benefit to the directors. Knotty problems in the new school code were raised by the members and answered by Deputy Teitrick who made an address on "The Directors' Duty under the Code." C. Arthur Griest of Butler township, treated the subject of "Agriculture in the Rural Schools," favoring the proposition and giving reasons for his attitude on the question which is coming more and more into prominence. Samuel R. Bair, of Conewago township, read a very excellent paper on "Business Methods of School Boards," going into the subject thoroughly and giving many valuable hints.

In the evening the Court Room held a large audience for the concert given by the combined musical clubs of Gettysburg College. It drew the largest audience which has ever attended a session of the directors' convention. The musical numbers were excellent throughout and greatly enjoyed by all, both mandolin and glee clubs showing careful training and excellent preparation. Mr. Diehl's clarinet solo was specially well received. The concert closed with "Sons of Gettysburg" by the combined clubs followed by the college yell for the directors.

This morning there were three addresses after the devotional exercises conducted by Rev. C. F. Sanders, Dr. S. E. Weber, of State College talked on "Improving the Rural School;" Superintendent Teitrick on "Economy in School Affairs;" and Dr. J. George Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, on "The State's Best Asset."

The final session in the afternoon was addressed by Dr. Becht on "The Director's Privilege;" by Superintendent Teitrick on "A Good School Director;" and by Dr. Weber on "Consolidation of Schools."

C. W. MORSE HOME; CARRIED FROM TRAIN

Will Go to Germany to Recover His Health.

New York, Feb. 9. — Charles W. Morse, bank wrecker and pardoned federal convict, came back to the scene of his former triumphs and his conviction, crumpled up in a wheel chair, silent and impassive as a lay figure.

With a white-faced wife at his side, he was pushed through the curious throngs at the Pennsylvania station, lifted quickly into a taxicab and then whisked away to his home at 127 West Fifty-eighth street, to remain for a week or ten days before starting for Bad Nauheim, Germany, where he has hopes of recovering his health.

Morse is suffering from Bright's disease, in addition to which he is afflicted with mitral stenosis, a valvular disease of the heart, which produces at periods attacks of cardiac dyspnea, or difficult respiration, superinduced by arterio sclerosis, hardening of the arteries.

Dr. Fowler says that the greatest danger now confronting the ex-banker is excitement, and that he survived the welcome that awaited him in New York is short of remarkable. The explosions of flashlight powder, which startled the people in the Pennsylvania station and reverberated through the building, seemed to have little effect upon Morse.

SEES RUIN IN STEEL IS CUT

Schwab Says Present Tariff Rates Are Necessary.

THREATENS TO QUIT TRADE

Declares He Will "Cash In" and Quit the Business If Democratic Tariff Measure Passes.

Washington, Feb. 9. — Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, of Bethlehem, Pa., testified before the senate finance committee on the possible effect of the house Democrat steel tariff bill.

He said the Underwood rates on larger steel products would be of most serious consequences to the steel business in the eastern states, and undertook to make plain his own attitude.

"On many occasions I have said that, with equal conditions, steel could be made as cheaply in the United States as in any other country," said Mr. Schwab. "This has been construed into a statement that steel is made as cheaply here as elsewhere. That I have not said, and I do not say."

"With the same conditions, especially with labor as cheap, we ask no protection, but the labor account weighs heavily against us. Only 100 miles from New York it costs as much to put our steel there as it does to bring it from Holland. I consider the present tariff rates necessary to the prosperity of the steel business. Most emphatically, I am opposed to any reduction."

Mr. Schwab went on to say that without protection he would want no financial interest in the steel business and he would regard as wasted the $35,000,000 which recently had been invested in his business.

He gave the net earnings of his company in the last six years as $90, $71,000.

"After all my work and the investment of my fortune, I have never taken a penny out of the industry and have never paid a dividend, and if the proposed tariff is to be the law, I repeat that I shall cash in," said Mr. Schwab in closing his general statement. "I haven't made sufficient profit to feel justified in taking money out of the industry."

"What is your salary?" asked Senator Stone. "Oh, I haven't any," replied the witness laughing. "I don't mind telling you why I am in this work. I don't need the income. I have no heirs, no children to leave anything to. I want to build up a successful enterprise; but I want to say that if the house bill passes I shall drop it."

Mr. Schwab admitted that he got less for the steel exported than for that sold here.

"At times we even sell abroad at a loss," he said, "because the average cost of a large production is less than that of a small production; it is necessary to maintain the output to keep the machines going all the time."

Mr. Schwab said that pig iron could be made in China for $7.50 per ton, and that he was importing iron from there for his San Francisco works rather than ship from Bethlehem, Pa. Steel rails cost in this country from $22 to $23 a ton, he said, and in Germany about $18 or $19.

He said the average wage paid to men and apprentices by the Bethlehem Steel company last year was $788.88. He made this statement in reply to the criticism of the report of the bureau of labor on wages which he characterized as "false" and "unfair." His plant, he said, employs from 13,000 to 15,000 men.

Discussing the working hours of the blast furnace men, he said his principal objection to abolishing the plan of twelve hours a day for seven days a week, came from the men themselves. Senator Simmons expressed the opinion that the men should not work on Sundays, to which Mr. Schwab assented.

Comparing wages here and in other countries, Mr. Schwab said that for similar work employees in England were paid about half as much as at the Bethlehem works, and those in Belgium and Germany less than half. He said it would cost about one-third more to produce steel if the hours of the blast furnace men were reduced from twelve to eight hours a day.

MOOSE CROSSES LAKE SUPERIOR ON ICE.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 9. — Lake Superior, for the first time in years, is frozen over from Eagle river to Isle Royale, a distance of forty miles. It is the belief of residents of Eagle River that the ice field extends clear across the big lake. Keweenaw Point people report that moose have been seen during the last few days, and if this is so the animals must have crossed on the ice from Canada.

Serve Subpoena on J. J. Hill.

Washington, Feb. 9. — James J. Hill, chairman of the directorate of the Great Northern railroad, has been served with a subpoena at Jekyll Island, Ga., to testify before the Stanley steel trust investigating committee next Monday regarding the so-called Hill lease of the Lake Superior ore fields to the United States Steel corporation.

9 CATS CO-RESPONDENTS

Frederick Voss Says They Won His Wife's Love.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9. — Nine cats have broken up a home and driven a man into the divorce court.

The story of the despicable cats was told in the court of common pleas by Frederick Voss, who sought a divorce from his wife, Elizabeth. The jury, after hearing of the cats, granted the divorce without leaving the box.

Neither Mrs. Voss nor the cats were in court to answer the charges.

Voss told how he was married in 1903 and went to live with his wife's family. He said he had no animus against the felines until he found that they were winning his wife's attention and even her love from him. He won the sympathy of the jury when he told how the cats made a practice of sleeping in his clothes. Cat hair, he said, was everywhere, in his bed, all over his clothing and even in his food. In short, he said that the cats made the house an unfit place for him to live.

He said that he would have loved to drown the cats, but his wife would not have it that way, and once when he threatened to do violence to the felines Mrs. Voss threatened him with arrest.

"She told me if I did not like the cats I could get out," he explained.

TAFT SURE HE CAN WIN AGAINST ANY ONE

Confident He Will Defeat Any Democrat Named.

Washington, Feb. 9. — President Taft is confident of winning a renomination for the presidency, and is equally confident of election against any opponent in the convention, or at the polls.

This was asserted by one of the few White House visitors who talked with Mr. Taft. The president is reported to have said he was convinced that he could defeat any man the Democratic party could nominate. He is also said to have amplified his statement that "nothing but death" could keep him out of the contest for the Republican nomination, leaving no doubt in the mind of his visitor that he expected to get the nomination and that he expected to win in the election.

According to this caller, the president believed the business men of the country would support him.

The president remained in his study in the White House looking over the report of the postal rate commission and preparing speeches which he will deliver on his trip to New York next Monday. Friends of the president expect him to talk along the line he admitted in Ohio, and are looking for a spirited speech which will clearly define the issue between the regulars of the Republican party and the Progressives.

THINK SISTERS WERE SLAIN

Bodies of Aged Spinners Found in Ruins of Their Farm House.

Cape Charles, Va., Feb. 9. — Mary and Kate Tunnell, the two aged spinners whose charred bodies were found in their home in the little village of Pastoria, Accomack county, are believed by the police to have been murdered while asleep in their bedroom, their bodies carried to the lower floor and the house set on fire.

The two women conducted an extensive farm for a number of years and accumulated a snug fortune. They kept their money and valuables hidden about the premises. A considerable amount of silverware, bric-a-brac and costly china is missing.

American Mail Bags Stolen.

Naples, Feb. 9. — A number of American mail bags, which arrived here by way of Havre, France, containing registered mail and remittances from Italian emigrants in America for their families in Sicily, valued at $100,000, disappeared after they left Naples and no trace of them can be found. It is believed that the bags were stolen from the mail boat Perseo.

Wilson Off to Kentucky.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9. — Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, spent two hours between trains in Philadelphia en route from Allentown, Pa., where he made a speech, to Frankfort, Ky., where he is to address the legislature. While in Philadelphia the governor met Thomas B. Love, head of the Wilson movement in Texas.

IRISHMEN HEAR HOME RULE BILL

Churchill Outlines the Proposed Measure.

CHEERS AND JEERS FOR HIM

British Cabinet Official Declares Government Will Guarantee Religious Freedom and Give Irish Parliament Control of Funds.

Belfast, Ireland, Feb. 9.—Despite the threats of the Ulster Unionists and Protestants that it would be prevented, even possibly by force, the long-awaited speech of Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, on home rule, was made here.

The speech outlined for the first time the Liberals' home rule bill to be introduced into the British parliament. The city is divided between noots and cheers over the situation, and it would not surprise observers if nothing should occur.

Mr. Churchill, in outlining the bill, declared it will contain provisions for a fair representation in the two houses of the Irish parliament of all classes of the Irish people and that restrictions will be placed on the passing of laws or the imposition of taxes which might be unjust to any party, while religious freedom is to be secured.

The armed forces in Ireland are to be controlled by the imperial government, but Ireland is to control its own finances, while the imperial government will continue its land purchase and pensions schemes.

The government's home rule bill, continued Mr. Churchill, would fit into a general scheme of parliamentary evolution leading ultimately to the federation of the empire. That was the only way to free the house of commons from its present congestion.

"Look at our great rivals, the United States of America and Germany," said the speaker. "Both of those great powers conduct their business through separate parliaments."

Mr. Churchill contended that the settlement of the long quarrel between the British government and the Irish people would be a boon to the empire beyond compare, as the Irish throughout the world were a power for good or ill who had in the past mostly worked counter to British interests.

The bill as outlined by Mr. Churchill contains these provisions: Religious freedom will be secured. The privy council will be able to declare void any law which goes beyond the limits of the home rule bill.

The military will remain under the control of the imperial government. The financial proposals of the bill will give a fair start to the Irish government and insidious taxes will not be able to be placed upon Ulster.

The Irish parliament will have real control of its finances, but the system used must be consistent with the financial system of the United Kingdom.

The imperial government will continue to carry out the land purchase and old age pensions schemes. The Irish representation at Westminster will be reduced.

Winston Churchill, storm center of the day, because of his decision to talk home rule despite Unionist and Protestant objection, was greeted with a rousing reception from the 6000 people assembled to hear him speak, and whose enthusiasm not even the depressing surroundings were able to entirely to quench. While rain poured through the canvas of the tent in which the meeting took place, a band played popular airs, intermingled with the Irish melodies "The Wearing of the Green" and "The Boys of Wexford."

Mr. Churchill arrived with his wife at the central station and was given a somewhat mixed reception. A number of Orangemen who had gathered at the station greeted him with groans and boos, but these were not tiredly drowned in the hearty cheers of the large crowd of Liberals and Nationalists. There was no disturbance and the large force of police on duty in the station had a very easy task to perform.

HEAD CUT OFF SLAIN MAN

Body Found on Bank of River Near Gallipolis, Ohio.

Gallipolis, O., Feb. 9.—The body of a middle-aged man, with the head and arms cut off, was found frozen in the shore ice near the right bank of the Great Kanawha river at a joint just above Johnson's Shoals.

A passing boatman discovered the body, which evidently had been in the water several weeks, as shown by its condition. An investigation has been commenced to discover who was responsible for the man's death. Efforts at identification failed.

Canada to Bar American Potatoes

Washington, Feb. 9.—A Canada is about to put up the bars against potatoes from the United States, fearing the dread black rot, according to department agriculture officials. The "war" does not exist here, but there is no quarantine law which would keep infected potatoes from Europe out of American ports, whence they might make their way into Canada.

BOY ON SLED COASTS DOWN SCENIC RAILWAY

Unable to Keep on Rails He Falls 35 Feet.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—The daredevilry of youth resulted in twelve-year-old Raymond Spies, of Crestmont, catapulting through the air in a sled from a height of thirty-five feet, striking the ground with terrible force, fracturing his skull, both arms and both legs, and causing concussion of the brain and internal injuries.

The accident happened at the Willow Grove park. The boy is now in the Jewish hospital in a dying condition.

The mountain scenic railway in the big amusement park was the scene of the accident. The park has only a few policemen in the winter and the boys of the section are wont to play within its confines.

While a number of them were hunting for new places to sled they found that some of the sharp "dips" in the mountain railway were covered with ice and snow and would afford thrilling sport.

Carefully the little group worked their way up to the top of the incline. Below them it sloped downward. At the bottom it was seen that a snow drift, still frozen over, would allow them to coast off to the level ground. Then the question as to who would try it first arose.

Little Raymond stepped forward with his sled. Carefully he arranged himself for the thrilling slide, and then with a whoop he was off. Faster and faster went the sled from the seventy-foot height. Then the speed became too great and the lad began to experience difficulty in keeping his speeding sled to the track.

It slewed over to one side, struck an obstruction, and as the cries of his companions choked in their throats as they turned away horror-stricken, the child and his sled shot out over the edge of the dip. One boy watched the terrifying sight, and declared that three times the sled and the boy turned over as they went through the air, finally striking the ground a short distance apart. He was rushed to the hospital in a trolley car.

INJURED BY WIFE'S HAT PIN

Protruding Stiletto Entered Man's Abdomen and Broke Off.

Chester, Pa., Feb. 9.—Thomas Fenton went to the hallrack at his home to secure his overcoat, when a large hatpin protruding from his wife's hat entered his abdomen and broke off.

He walked two squares from his home before the pain distressed him. Returning to his home, he fell helplessly in the hallway and was subsequently removed to the Chester hospital, where the piece of metal was extracted.

The physicians there said that if the pin had gone a quarter of a inch deeper it would have caused a fatal hemorrhage.

Dr. Atkinson had been ill for a week. Several times during the day the physician told his daughter that he would "end it all" some time, and the girl hid the revolver, but he found it.

EDWIN HAWLEY DIED INTESTATE

Cast-Off Nephew Will Share In $40,000,000 Estate.

HOUSEKEEPER PROVIDED FOR

Poor Relative Whom Railroad Magnate Planned to Cut Off Because of Love Affair Becomes Millionaire.

New York, Feb. 9.—John B. Stanchfield, attorney for the heirs of Edwin Hawley, the railroad magnate, who left an estate estimated between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000, gave out a statement in which he said that the financier had died intestate and that the great amount of railroad securities and other property he left would be divided among his brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews, according to the provisions of the law of the state of New York.

Miss Margaret Cameron, who was Mr. Hawley's housekeeper and protégé for many years at his Long Island estate at Babylon, called at the offices of John B. Stanchfield, attorney for the Hawley heirs. When she had left Mr. Stanchfield was asked if any provision would be made for her when Mr. Hawley's estate is administered.

"Oh, I suppose so," replied Mr. Stanchfield.

The estate will be divided into five parts, which will go to Charles and Samuel Hawley, brothers; Miss Anna Hawley and Mrs. Harvey A. Seymour, sisters, and to the children of the late Mrs. Homer Crandell, a third sister.

Mrs. Crandell's children, who divide her fifth, are Mrs. John H. Page, of Chatham, N. Y.; Walter S. Crandell and Fred Crandell, of New York City.

Miss Crandell, a nephew of Mr. Hawley, and Mr. Stanchfield had communicated with her and had assured her she was to be provided for.

"I have left everything to the discretion of Mr. Stanchfield and to Mr. Crandell," she said.

"Is there any truth in a rumor that you were married to Mr. Hawley?" was asked.

"I will not answer that question," replied Miss Cameron.

Frederick Crandell, a nephew of Edwin Hawley, who had been an outcast from his family for almost twenty years, was destitute a few days before his uncle's death. Today he is the certain heir of between two million and three million dollars of the railroad builder's forty million dollar estate.

Crandell called at the office of the brokerage firm of Atwood, Violet & Co., to borrow a quarter and beg for work shortly before his uncle, Edwin Hawley, died.

He asked to see Richard Throckmorton, a member of the firm, who twenty years ago was a fellow clerk with him in the Southern Pacific railroad offices.

"I am down and out and cannot even see a meal ahead," said Crandell. "For God's sake lend me a quarter and, if possible, get me some work to do."

Mr. Throckmorton handed over the money and arranged to get work for the nephew of one of the five premier American financiers. Crandell said he was in such desperate straits that he would do anything, and Mr. Throckmorton found him a place as clerk for Dick Chiarello Brothers & Company, stevedores at Pier 44. Crandell went to work there at a salary of about $20 a week.

The break between Edwin Hawley and his nephew came in 1891, when Mr. Hawley was assistant traffic manager of the Southern Pacific railroad at a salary of $18,000 a year. Crandell was a favorite of the dead railroad magnate, but was cast off for a love affair with a young woman operator, named Miss McManus, employed by the Southern Pacific railroad. Young Crandell seemed to lose his nerve after losing out with Hawley and began to drink.

ROOSEVELT WON'T DESERT

Says Progressives Will "Find Me Fighting Side by Side to Finish."

New York, Feb. 9.—"I don't believe that even my bitterest enemies will say that I was ever a deserter," Colonel Roosevelt told A. P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, according to an interview given out by Mr. Moore.

"You can say to the Progressives," Colonel Roosevelt is quoted by Mr. Moore as saying, "that I will not desert the cause and that they will find me fighting side by side with them to the finish."

FARM WORK HORSES.

Many Animals Injured by Feeding Too Much Hay.

The proper feeding of farm animals is yearly commanding more and more attention. Long since it has been shown that the usual methods of feeding are not only extravagant, but that they do not always meet best the animal's requirements. Too large a proportion of our farm animals are poorly fed, although they have all they can eat.

The experiment station of Oregon in a recent bulletin reports: Farm horses as a general rule are fed entirely too much hay. This is a positive injury to the animal and often lessens to a considerable degree his working efficiency.

It should be remembered that every time a horse inhales his lungs the stomach is displaced, and if this organ be kept constantly full of bulky food it imposes extra work upon the respiratory system. Heaves, so common among farm horses, is almost wholly due to feeding too large quantities of hay. Colic and other forms of indigestion are often due to feeding too large amounts of bulky food. Aside from its physical injury to the horse, the feeding of excessive amounts of hay is a waste that should be conserved.

A horse weighing 1,000 pounds will do more work and keep in better health on fifteen pounds of hay per day than he will on twenty pounds per day. In fact, fifteen pounds of hay per day is sufficiently bulky food for a horse of that size. A horse weighing 1,000 to 1,200 pounds does not need more than twenty pounds of hay per day. The balance of his nutrients should be in the form of grain.

Feed the 1,000 pound horse ten pounds of good hay at night and five pounds in the morning and he will perform more labor with greater ease than he would if hay is kept before him all the while.

If two or more teams are maintained upon the farm feed one team as suggested and the other the usual way and note carefully the result. In making the test, however, teams should be divided as to size, age and individuality as nearly equal as possible. Whenever practicable weigh rather than guess the amount of hay fed.

Dangerous as handling dynamite is to limb and life, it is hardly more so than the corn shredder, which deprives so many men of hands and arms during the fall and winter. When one takes into account how quickly one of these machines will chew to pieces a human hand and arm he is led to wonder why men who have their wits about them will be so careless when working about such machinery.

COUGHED FIVE YEARS

Did you ever cough for five weeks—or five months? Then think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for five years.

Mrs. M. Mann, of New York City knows something about this. She says: "A chronic cough that lasted for five years seemed almost impossible for me to get rid of. Various other remedies gave little if any relief, but before I had taken half a bottle of Vinol I noticed a great improvement as I no longer coughed at night."

"Now my bronchial trouble has quite disappeared and I feel sure that the credit for this is due to Vinol."

The reason cough syrups did Mrs. Mann no good is that they do not and cannot build up the body and enrich the blood. That is what you have to do to get rid of a stubborn bronchial cough, and Vinol will do it for you.

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cod livers (without oil) and tonic iron. We guarantee it to be delicious in taste and to satisfy you with its medicinal effects. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

THE ADAMS SEPARATION

By WINIFRED COWLES

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, having concluded that marriage is a failure, agreed to separate. Mr. Adams owned the house, but Mrs. Adams owned the homestead in which she had been born, and she decided to go there to live. Perhaps I am not right in including Mr. Adams with his wife in considering matrimony a failure. He was a steady going business man whom nothing appeared to trouble, and whenever he took any action it was not on impulse, but after deliberation.

Mrs. Adams departed on Monday and on Tuesday afternoon returned to her husband's house to procure some articles that she had forgotten.

"Who are you?" she asked of the person who received her.

"The housekeeper."

"Well, I'm Mrs. Adams. I have left some things upstairs in my room that I want."

She brushed past the housekeeper, went upstairs, tried her bedroom door and found it locked. She called to the housekeeper for the key. The housekeeper informed her that Mr. Adams had locked the doors of the rooms he wished kept closed and committed the keys to her charge. She did not feel at liberty to permit any one to enter any of those closed rooms.

"But I am—I mean I have been—the mistress of this house. I wish you to give me the key to my room."

"Not without Mr. Adams' order."

Mrs. Adams was nonplused. She had not considered what it would be to find herself locked out of her own bedroom. Floundering into the library, she threw off her wraps, unplugged her hat and laid it on a table with an air of one who proposed to settle herself and remain till the crack of doom.

"Will you wait for Mr. Adams to return?" asked the housekeeper deferentially.

"What is that to you?"

"Nothing, but I thought it might be something to you since Mr. Adams told me he wouldn't dine at home today, but at his club, and he will spend the evening there."

"I will dine at home," said Mrs. Adams decisively.

"I have no orders as to a guest at dinner; therefore I have not prepared anything."

"I'll not trouble you to prepare anything. Send Susan to me."

"Mr. Adams has discharged Susan."

"Discharged Susan? I told him to keep Susan."

"I thought you and Mr. Adams had separated."

"Never mind about that. I don't propose to give up my house to your management."

She whisked off to the telephone room and shut the door.

"Give me the Athenaeum club—I mean 4508."

When the club answered Mrs. Adams asked if her husband was there, and on being told that he was she desired that he be called to the phone; his wife desired to speak to him.

This was reported to Mr. Adams in the reading room. He noticed that the words wife and husband had been used instead of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. When he took up the receiver and was asked "Who is this?" he replied:

"Mr. Adams."

"Oh, your wife," was the reply.

"I'm at home."

"Your home or mine?"

"Both our homes. I see that I have scarcely left it when you have got in a housekeeper."

"Just so."

"And she has refused me admission to my own room."

"Whose room?"

"My room—mine, mine! Do you hear?"

"Oh."

"I'm going to stay here till you come home to dinner and let me into my room."

"There isn't any dinner there."

"I shall order one sent in from Blakesley's."

"For one?"

"No; for two."

"Who's the other one?"

"You."

"Oh."

"Frank, I've come to the conclusion that this separation is all nonsense."

"Nonsense?"

"I'm going to stay just where I am. I wish you to come home at once and discharge this housekeeper. I don't want her in the house."

"Oh."

"Well, will you come?"

"Of course, if I'm sure of a dinner."

"I'll attend to that."

"Well, I'll be there by 6."

"All right. Goodbye."

"Goodbye."

When Mr. Adams appeared his wife was somewhat mollified. Indeed, she was quite ready to be very good to him. Her bitterness against the housekeeper, however, remained the same. Mr. Adams greeted his wife as though nothing unusual had happened. He called the housekeeper in and introduced her.

"Miss Ellen Burbank."

"What?"

"My half sister. By the bye, you two have never met, I believe."

"Frank, you have been putting up a job on me."

Adams and Miss Burbank laughed.

That ended the Adams separation.
